National Association of Women Judges
39th Annual Conference

October 11-15, 2017 | Atlanta, GA

National Association of Women Judges

The mission of The National Association of Women Judges is to: promote the judicial role in protecting the rights of individuals under the rule of law through strong, committed, diverse judicial leadership; fairness and equality in the courts; and equal access to justice.

History

Since its formation in 1979, NAWJ has served as a leading voice for jurists dedicated to promoting the judicial role in protecting the rights of individuals under the rule of law; engaging in civic education about the importance of a fair judiciary, free from special interest or political influence; providing a voice in significant matters that affect the administration of justice; ensuring equal justice and access to the courts for all, with a focus on women, minorities, and other historically disfavored groups and vulnerable populations; promoting the advancement of women and minorities at all levels of the judiciary; and providing judicial education on cutting-edge issues. NAWJ was founded over 36 years ago by two visionaries – Justice Joan Dempsey Klein and Justice Vaino Spencer – and 100 brave and intrepid women judges committed to forming an organization dedicated to these ideals.

Membership

NAWJ welcomes both men and women. Our membership includes trial and appellate, administrative, tribal and military judges on federal, state and tribal courts at every level of the judiciary, from throughout the country, and international tribunals, as well as attorneys, law clerks, law students and law professors committed to our mission. As members of the International Association of Women Judges (IAWJ), NAWJ engages judges from all over the world.

Why Sponsor?

The Conference Planning Committee invites your participation in Access to Justice: Past, Present and Future
NAWJ's 39th Annual Conference

Conference sponsors are the backbone of financial support for this year's event and, where possible, they encourage colleagues and others throughout the Greater Atlanta legal and business communities to attend and support the conference. Sponsoring the conference allows members of your firm, organization or company to participate in conference activities, educational sessions, and other social and interactive events that include members of the judiciary, local bar associations, and leading legal experts from various academic and non-profit fields. Demonstrate your support to the mission of NAWJ and the Greater Atlanta legal community. In this brochure, you will find detailed information about sponsorship levels and benefits.

We hope that your firm, organization or company will give generously, because these meetings are not possible without your support. We look forward to seeing you at this important NAWJ conference, and ask that you please reach out to us or NAWJ's Executive Director, Marie Komisar, with any questions. Thank you!
