

April, 2021
Report from District Two
Honorable Kathy J. King

NY, CT, VT

On March 20, 2021, District 2, in collaboration with Monroe College of Criminal and Social Justice, held the second session of their COJ virtual speaker series entitled, "I've Decided to go to Law School. Now What?" This session, like session one, opened with an Icebreaker and continued with a panel discussion.

The first panel included the President of a LSAT preparation course and a Law School Admissions Officer.

Guiding questions included:

- What is the LSAT and how do you prepare for it?
- How do law schools select their students?
- How do you write the best law school admissions essay?

The second panel included a law school professor and two law school students.

Guiding questions included:

- How does one choose a concentration area in law school?
- Internships and externships in law school
- Dual degrees in law school

The next session of the COJ virtual series is on April 17, 2021.
