

Jodi Cleesattle (she/her/hers) is Senior Assistant Attorney General for the Tort and Condemnation Section of the California Department of Justice. She oversees a statewide team of litigators who handle difficult and sensitive cases involving government tort liability, personal injury, wrongful death, property damage, civil rights, dangerous condition of public property, eminent domain, inverse condemnation, and mass torts. She previously was a Supervising Deputy Attorney General in the DOJ's Employment and Administrative Mandate Section. Before joining the DOJ, Jodi was a partner with a Washington, D.C.-based national law firm and, prior to her legal career, was a newspaper reporter and magazine editor.

Jodi is active in various bar associations as well as in community service. She currently serves as President-Elect of California Women Lawyers and chairs its Amicus Committee and Annual Dinner Committee. She also serves as Co-President of Tom Homann LGBTQ+ Law Association, co-chairing both its Amicus Committee and its CLE Committee. Jodi is a member of the National Association of Women Judges and serves on its LGBTQ+ Committee, Judicial Independence Committee, and Fairness and Access Committee.

She is a past board member of the San Diego County Bar Association and Lawyers Club of San Diego, a bar association dedicated to the advancement of the status of women. She also previously served as chair of the California State Bar's Public Law Section and co-chair of the Council of State Bar Sections. She volunteers with, serves on the board, and is a past president of Juvenile Court Book Club, a nonprofit that provides tutoring and book clubs for teens incarcerated in San Diego County, and she is a longtime volunteer for Rachel's Women's Center, where she cooks meals once a month for the women served by the shelter.

She was named the 2021 Ronald M. George Public Lawyer of the Year by the California Lawyers Association, and she received Lawyers Club of San Diego's 2014 Community Service Award for her volunteer work.

Jodi received her B.A. in Communications, cum laude, from American University in Washington, D.C., and received her J.D., summa cum laude, from American University's Washington College of Law.

She has two young adult children, three dogs, and two cats and lives in San Diego.