

Professor Ariela J. Gross

Ariela J. Gross is the John B. and Alice R. Sharp Professor of Law and History at the University of Southern California, Co-Director of the USC Center for Law, History, and Culture, and author of Becoming Free, Becoming Black: Race, Freedom, and Law in Cuba, Virginia, and Louisiana, with Alejandro de la Fuente (Cambridge UP 2020). Her book What Blood Won't Tell: A History of Race on Trial in America (Harvard UP 2008), was cowinner of the James Willard Hurst Prize from the Law and Society Association, winner of the Lillian Smith Award for the best book on the U.S. South and the struggle for racial justice, the American Political Science Association's Best Book on Race, Ethnicity, and Politics, and a Choice Outstanding Academic Title.

Gross is also the author of Double Character: Slavery and Mastery in the Antebellum Southern Courtroom (Princeton UP 2000). She has published articles on the law and politics of race and the memory of slavery in the United States and France, and on the grassroots history of colorblind conservatism. She has been a visiting professor at Stanford Law School, Tel Aviv University, the Ecole des Hautes Etudes en Sciences Sociales, and the University of Paris. Her research has been supported by the J. Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation, the Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences at Stanford, the American Council of Learned Societies, the National Endowment for the Humanities, and the Huntington Library.