MIDYEAR MEETING & LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE LADY JUSTICE AWARDS GALA

JUNE 7-8, 2017 • LOS ANGELES

The leading voice of women in the judiciary.

WELCOME MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Greetings,

As the 36th President of the National Association of Women Judges (NAWJ), it gives me great pleasure to welcome you to the 2017 Midyear Meeting and Leadership Conference, and the Inaugural Lady Justice Awards Gala. NAWJ, founded in 1979, is the Nation's leading voice for women in the judiciary. Our theme this year is 'Honoring our Past-Pressing Toward the Future for Access, Fairness, and Diversity.'

The beautiful setting of Beverly Hills, California provides the perfect location for the dynamic energy of our members and friends, as we gather to take up the issues of the day, to reconnect, build relationships, and to recognize the pioneering and impactful achievements of our heroes. This Midyear Conference is inspired by the strength and tradition of service of those who have paved the way for our future.

The Gala Reception and Dinner personifies the spirit of celebrating and uplifting outstanding professionals who promote justice, and for the first time NAWJ will honor a selection of exceptional individuals, with the NAWJ Lady Justice Award. Congratulations to all of our honorees: Justice Sandra Day O'Connor (Retired), United States Supreme Court; Justice Joan Dempsey Klein (Retired), California Court of Appeal; Justice Vaino Hassan Spencer (posthumously), California Court of Appeal; Senior Judge Dorothy W. Nelson, United States Court of Appeals, Ninth Circuit; Jackie Lacey, Los Angeles County District Attorney; Janet Langhart Cohen, Emmy-Nominated journalist and playwright; Nina Shaw, Esq., entertainment attorney and activist, and Sharon Stone, actress and activist.

After NAWJ business, law students will join us to "Meet the Judges," and the gathering will officially open with a lovely Welcome Reception, featuring new judges and first-time attendees. Our Chief Justice of the State of California, Hon. Tani Cantil-Sakauye will provide words of inspiration, followed by greetings from the Hon. Virginia Phillips, Chief Judge of U.S. District Court's Central District. Attorney Pamela Samuels Young is featured as the luncheon speaker. Our educational sessions include leading thinkers on the topics of elder drug safety, entertainment, the media's intersection with the Internet age, and diversity in the entertainment industry. Our fabulous Gala Reception begins with a red carpet entrance, where we will proudly honor California Law School Deans, before the rest of our magical evening begins.

NAWJ is extremely grateful for the generous support of our sponsors and our Resource Board members. Without your commitment and care, this special occasion would not have been possible. Thank you to the Friends Committee, the Midyear Planning Committee, and NAWJ staff for your hard work and support. I also extend many thanks to the NAWJ 2016-2017 Board for your tireless efforts in furtherance of the NAWJ mission of access, fairness and diversity.

It has been my privilege and honor to serve as President of this outstanding organization. Your overwhelming devotion to NAWJ inspires me every single day.

Hiana Dector

STACY L. SMITH (Ph.D., University of California, Santa Barbara,

D., University of Camornia, santa Barbara, 1999) joined the USC Annenberg faculty in the fall of 2003. Her research focuses on 1) content patterns pertaining to gender and race on screen in film and TV;
2) employment patterns behind-the-camera in entertainment; 3) barriers and opportunities facing women on screen and behind-the-camera in studio and independent films; and 4) children's responses to mass media portrayals (television, film, video games) of violence, gender and hypersexuality. Since 2005, Dr. Smith has been working with a team of undergraduate and graduate students to assess portrayals of males and females in popular media. Over twodozen projects have been completed, assessing gender in films (e.g., 500+ top-grossing movies from 1990 to 2009, 180 Academy Award® Best Picture nominations from 1977 to 2010), TV shows (e.g., 1,034 children's programs, two weeks of prime time shows), video games (e.g., 60 bestselling), and point-of-purchase advertising (e.g., jacket covers of DVDs, video games). Currently, Dr. Smith is the director of a research-driven initiative at USC Annenberg on Media, Diversity, and Social Change. In addition to research, Dr. Smith is passionate about teaching. She currently teaches the undergraduate COMM 203 - Introduction to Mass Communication course at USC Annenberg. Dr. Smith has been recognized for her outstanding teaching, receiving multiple awards from different constituencies on campus.

MISSION

To promote the judicial role in protecting the rights of individuals under the rule of law through strong, committed, diverse judicial leadership; fairness and equality in the courts; and equal access to justice.

HISTORY

Since its formation in 1979, NAWJ has served as a leading voice for jurists engaging in civic education about the importance of a fair judiciary free from influence of special interest or political influence; providing a voice in significant matters that affect the administration of justice; promoting the advancement of women and minorities at all levels of the judiciary; and providing judicial education on cutting-edge issues. NAWJ was founded over 39 years ago by two visionaries – Justice Joan Dempsey Klein and Justice Vaino Spencer – and 100 brave and intrepid women judges committed to forming an organization dedicated to these ideals.

MEMBERSHIP

NAWJ is committed to diversity in our membership. The organization welcomes men and women. The membership includes trial and appellate, administrative, tribal and military judges, on federal, state and tribal courts at every level of the judiciary, from throughout the country, and international tribunals, as well as attorneys, law clerks, law students and law professors committed to our mission. As members of the International Association of Women Judges (IAWJ), which NAWJ founded, we meet and interact with judges from all over the world.

PROGRAMS

NAWJ actively reaches out through its committee and projects infrastructure to accomplish our mission-driven goals. Members engage in education and outreach program that address human trafficking/ modern day slavery; voter education in states with judicial elections; conditions for women in prison; problems facing immigrants in our court system; encouraging students about legal and judicial careers, and informing lawyers on how to become a judge.

Bush, Vice-President Albert Gore and U.N. Secretary General Boutros Boutros-Ghali, garnered this news veteran five Emmy Awards.

HONORABLE JOAN DEMPSEY KLEIN

Founder, National Association of Women Judges; Justice (Retired), California Court of Appeal

"She's such a great leader and such an inspiring role model and at the same time she is so modest and so ready to acknowledge everybody but herself. It's a wonderful combination," said California Court of Appeal Justice Maria Rivera

The first graduate of UCLA law school to be appointed to the bench, the Hon. Joan Dempsey Klein's list of honors and accomplishments is immense, but she may be best known for founding and leading professional organizations for women lawyers and judges. She was founding president of California Women Lawyers (CWL), which combats gender bias in the courts, supports legislation and court decisions for women's and children's rights and advocates for greater diversity in the profession, and co-founder and first president of the National Association for Women Judges, the leading voice for women jurists.

In 1974, after CWL, Justice Klein joined with then Justice Vaino Spencer, to coordinate their efforts in support of women nominated to federal and state supreme courts. The seeds of these early collaborations grew into an organization to promote increasing the number of women in the judiciary and to address the gender bias problems experienced by the few women who were on the bench. More than 100 women judges gathered at the Westwood Marquis in Los Angeles, California from October 25-28, 1979 to convene NAWJ's first national conference. That Conference concluded with three resolutions: supporting the passage of the ERA; espousing the importance of getting a woman on the Supreme Court; and seeking to change the ABA standards as they related to judicial codes of conduct and membership in discriminatory clubs.

By 1980, just one year after the founding Conference, membership in NAWJ increased to 273 and included a number of male judges. When President James Carter took office in 1977, there were only ten women ever appointed to the federal bench. By the time he met with NAWJ in October 1980, he had appointed 38 more. Justice Klein testified before the United States Congress on behalf of the nomination of Sandra Day O'Connor to the Supreme Court, and was chair of a California Highway Patrol committee on the employment of women as CHP officers.

A great leader and an inspiring role model for so many, the Hon. Joan Dempsey Klein served as the Presiding Justice of the California Court of Appeal, Second Appellate District. She retired in December 2014 after a distinguished 51-year career on the bench. Her appointment by Governor Pat Brown to the Los Angeles Municipal Court in 1963 began a prodigious career that included publishing 507 opinions. She went on to the Superior Court in 1975, and three years later was elevated to the Court of Appeal. Governor Jerry Brown appointed her Presiding Justice in the Los Angeles appellate court in 1978. There she initiated city-wide Bail by Mail, and a Los Angeles County Planning and Research unit for the courts. In May 1980, the U.S. Information & Culture Agency (USICA) selected Justice Klein, accompanied by Mr. Klein, to lecture on the U.S. judicial system throughout Brazil, Argentina and Peru.

Beyond the courtroom, Justice Klein has lectured for the California Judges Association, the Continuing Education of the Bar Program, State Bar, and at UCLA, USC and Loyola Universities. She was a professor of Judicial Administration, night class, USC. Justice Klein is a frequent speaker for service and women's organizations, as well as other groups, and has had numerous articles published.

A fifth generation California, Justice Klein was born in San Jose, California on August 18, 1924. She earned BA from San Diego State College in 1947, and her LL.B from University of California, Los Angeles Law School in 1955, and was admitted to the State Bar of California later that year. From 1955-1963, she was Deputy Attorney General for the California State Department of Justice.

LADY JUSTICE FOUNDERS AWARD

HONORABLE VAINO HASSAN SPENCER

Founder, National Association of Women Judges; Justice, California Court of Appeal (Posthumous)

In 1974, after having founded the Black Women Lawyers Association, Justice Spencer joined with the former California Appeals Court Justice Joan Dempsey Klein, who co-founded the California Women Lawyers, to coordinate their efforts in support of women nominated to federal and state supreme courts. The seeds of these early collaborations grew into an organization to promote increasing the number of women in the judiciary and to address the gender bias problems experienced by the few women who were on the bench. More than 100 women judges gathered at the Westwood Marquis in Los Angeles, California from October 25-28, 1979 to convene NAWJ's first national conference.

By 1980, just one year after the NAWJ founding Conference, membership in NAWJ increased to 273 and included a number of male judges. When President James Carter took office in 1977, there were only ten women ever appointed to the federal bench. By the time he met with NAWJ in October 1980, he had appointed 38 more. Justice Spencer would later remark:

We have been warmly greeted [everywhere], and we've gotten tremendous support, even from local judges who were openly resentful of our organizing initially. They have come around to be quite supportive, and they've demonstrated that in supporting the various programs that we have addressing gender bias and race bias in our courts.

A trailblazer for women and African Americans in the legal profession, Justice Spencer served as the Presiding Justice of the California Court of Appeal, Second Appellate District. She retired in September 2007 after a distinguished 46-year career on the bench. After private practice from 1952-1961, her appointment to the Los Angeles Municipal Court in 1961 confirmed her status as a true pioneer, when she became California's first black woman judge, and the third in the nation. She went on to the Superior Court in 1976, and four years later was elevated to the Court of Appeal. Beyond the courtroom, Justice Spencer served on the California Law Revision Commission, National Judicial Council, Judicial Council of California, and Attorney General's Advisory Committee on Constitutional Rights, and was an officer and director of the Los Angeles County Commission on Justice. She held leadership posts in over two dozen professional and community organizations including the Democratic State and County Central Committees, the Democratic Minority Conference, the California Mental Health Association, the Neighborhood Economic Development Corporation, the NAACP Executive Board, the National Bar Association, and the Langston Bar Association.

Throughout the years, Justice Spencer remained closely involved with Southwestern Law School, her alma mater, serving on boards and committees, receiving the schools Outstanding Judicial Officer award in 1989. Her numerous other honors include initiation into the Langston Bar Association Hall of Fame (1991); Honoree of the Year (1992) from the National Association of Women Judges; the Lifetime Achievement Award (1991) from the Judicial Council of the National Bar Association; the Trailblazer Award (1985) from the National Association of Business and Professional Women; the Bernard Jefferson Appellate Justice Award (1983) from the California Association of Black Lawyers; and the Judge Ernestine Stahlhut Award (1976) from the Los Angeles Women Lawyers Association.

Justice Spencer was born in Los Angeles on July 22, 1920. She graduated from Los Angeles Polytechnic High School, Valedictorian, of the Class of Summer 1938. She earned BA from Los Angeles City College in 1949. She graduated with an LL.B from Southwestern University School of Law in 1952, and was admitted to the State Bar of California later that year.

LADY JUSTICE ARTISTIC INTEGRITY AWARD

JANET LANGHART COHEN Emmy Nominated Journalist and Playwright

Janet Langhart Cohen is an Emmy nominated broadcast journalist whose interviews have gained national attention. Ms. Cohen's interviews have included world figures and dignitaries, history makers and pop icons. The short list of diverse interview subjects includes Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., David Duke, Rosa Parks, Muhammad Ali, President Bill Clinton, Geoffrey Holder, Arnold Schwarzenegger and Lauren Hutton. Ms. Cohen has shared hosting duties with some notable newsmakers such as Julian Bond, and continues her high profile interviews most recently, with Clayborne Carson, for CSPAN's "After Words". Her mark on communications has been honored, most recently as an inductee to the Indiana Broadcasters Association Hall of Fame.

Mrs. Cohen is a native of Indianapolis, where she grew up in a segregated housing project. She entered the public eye in the 1960s as a model for the Ebony Fashion Fair. Within a few years she was breaking racial and gender barriers becoming the first Black woman in America to host a nationally syndicated show, "Good Morning." Her broadcasting credits include work for both ABC and NBC network television, Entertainment Tonight, BET, the Armed Forces Network, as well as print journalism for the Boston Herald. She served as a spokeswoman for US News & World Report and Avon Cosmetics, and has been featured in Vogue, Bazaar, Encore, Jet, Glamour, Tan, W, Ebony, Boston and Washingtonian magazines. In addition, she has served as a judge for the White House Fellows Program, and the Miss America Pageant, an unprecedented three times.

Anne & Emmett, Janet Langhart Cohen's groundbreaking play, is an imaginary conversation between Anne Frank and Emmett Till. Anne Frank recounts her experience hidden in an attic during the Holocaust, and Emmett Till tells his tragic tale of racial hatred and violence in the American South. They then share in the search for reconciliation and hope in this memorable work that has received critical acclaim throughout the United States and as far away as Jerusalem.

Mrs. Cohen said, "I wrote the play as a call to action to help eradicate racism and anti-Semitism". Anne and Emmett, two very different teenagers, lived in societies that couldn't protect them because of hatred and the inaction of silent witnesses.

While the hate that took their lives still lives, the play not only reminds us to remember but to act. Towards that end, she and Secretary Cohen founded Race and Reconciliation In America, a non-profit organization that holds conferences that invite people of all races and ethnicities to engage in open and honest dialogue to bring about understanding, tolerance and a higher level of humanity in our conduct.

HONORABLE SANDRA DAY O'CONNOR

Justice (Retired) United States Supreme Court

The Honorable Sandra Day O'Connor was born in El Paso, Texas on March 26, 1930. She received her B.A. and LL.B. from Stanford University, and was a member of the Order of the Coif and Board of Editors of the Stanford Law Review while in law school.

She served as Deputy County Attorney of San Mateo County, California from 1952–1953 and as a civilian attorney for Quartermaster Market Center, Frankfurt, Germany from 1954–1957. From 1958–1960, she practiced law in Maryvale, Arizona, and served as Assistant Attorney General of Arizona from 1965–1969. She was appointed to the Arizona State Senate in 1969 and was subsequently reelected to two two-year terms. During those years, she was Senate Majority Leader, Chair of the State, County and Municipal Affairs Committee, and member of Legislative Council, Probate Code Commission, and Arizona Council on Intergovernmental Relations.

In 1975, she was elected Judge of the Maricopa County Superior Court and served until 1979, when she was appointed to the Arizona Court of Appeals by Governor Bruce Babbitt. President Ronald Reagan nominated her as an Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, and she took her seat September 25, 1981. Justice O'Connor retired from the Supreme Court on January 31, 2006. She is the recipient of numerous awards and honorary degrees. ### NINA SHAW Entertainment Attorney and Activist

Nina Shaw is a founding partner of the firm Del Shaw Moonves Tanaka Finkelstein & Lezcano. Her practice centers primarily in the television, motion picture and live stage arenas. Ms. Shaw was born and raised in Harlem and the Bronx, and educated in the New York City public school system. Her clients include actors, writers, producers and directors, as well as entrepreneurs and entertainment executives. After graduating with a B.A. from Barnard College, she earned her J.D. at Columbia University Law School, and began her legal career in the Entertainment Department of the law firm of O'Melveny & Myers.

Ms. Shaw is a past Daily Variety Dealmaker Impact honoree and has been named to The Hollywood Reporter's Women in Entertainment Power 100. She is a recipient of the Women in Film Crystal Award and has been honored by the Beverly Hills Bar Association as the Entertainment Lawyer of the Year. Last year she was honored at the annual Essence Black Women in Hollywood Luncheon. In her acceptance remarks she used her speech to relay the industry's stark realities, urging talent to forge beyond "we can do better" platitudes about Hollywood homogeneity by making demands. She went on to share that actors of color should make their displeasure known and make sure that their representatives — agents, lawyers, publicists and the like — do not turn out to all be white men.

And that if talent wants to empower women, they should hire women, adding: "If you're a white man who advocates change, then hire someone other than white men. Do it for your wives, your sisters, your daughters."

Ms. Shaw generously shares her knowledge and experience with a number of worthy causes. She became a Big Sister in The Hollywood Reporter 2011 Women in Entertainment Mentoring Program, is currently a board member of Independent School Alliance for Minority Affairs. She continues to serve on the Columbia Law School West Coast Advisory Board.

HONORABLE DOROTHY W. NELSON

Senior Judge (Retired), United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit

After initially thinking she would join social work as a career, the Honorable Dorothy W. Nelson turned to the profession with the "inside edge", law, and obtained her law degree from the University of California Los Angeles (UCLA) Law School after receiving a bachelor's degree in political science from UCLA in 1950. She was admitted to the State Bar of California the following year graduation from law school. For her first job out of law school, she worked as a research associate at the University of Southern California Law School alongside USC law professor James Holbrook, on a project to investigate the courts in Los Angeles and recommend improvements. The study was titled 'Survey of Metropolitan Courts-Los Angeles Area," and recommended 32 changes to the state legislature, most of which were adopted, including the creation of a court executive officer, the consolidation of courts, the improvement of juror pay, and the keeping of court statistics. The following year, Judge Nelson joined USC's faculty as the first woman law professor. There she became a pioneer in teaching mediation and arbitration and other forms of dispute resolution.

During her tenure as a law professor, Judge Nelson was involved in a number of other law-related activities. She was involved in private practice, handling family, juvenile, and adoption matters. She also formed two major corporations, Woolstone Inc. and California Limestone, and did all their legal work. In addition, she served on the Federal Indigent Defense Panel and wrote trusts and wills. Eventually, she was named its interim dean at USC Law in 1967, and dean in 1969, becoming the first woman dean of a major American law school. After she served 10 years as dean, President Jimmy Carter appointed her to the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit in 1979. She assumed senior status on the court in 1995. In 1985, Judge Nelson and a group of attorneys and judges established the Western Justice Center Foundation to develop a research center to promote peaceful resolution of conflict among children, courts, community, and government. Since its founding, the Western Justice Center Foundation has developed a number of programs designed to teach conflict resolution to children, youth, parents, teachers, administrators, and community members. Included among these programs are the Children's Workshop, the Models of Unity Program, court workshops, the Peer Mediation Invitational, and Creative Classroom Management, which trains K-6 teachers to infuse conflict resolution education throughout the curriculum and to maximize child-centered problem solving.

Judge Nelson is author of 'Judicial Administration and the Administration of Justice' (West 1957), chapter in Women Lawyers, Perspectives on Success, Harcourt, Brace, Janovich 1984- and numerous articles on women's issues and alternative dispute resolution. She is Chair Emerita, Board of Directors of Western Justice Center; Delegate, United Nations Women's Conference in Mexico City (1975) and Beijing (1995); Co-Chair, Sino-American Conference on Mediation and Arbitration, Beijing, China (1992), and member of the Board Advisors, Institute for the Study of Women and Men, the Advisory Committee of the National Judicial Education Program to Promote Equality of Women and Men, and the Advisory Committee Tahirih Justice Institute dedicated to assisting women refugees.

JACKIE LACEY 42nd District Attorney for Los Angeles County

District Attorney Jackie Lacey has spent most of her professional life as a prosecutor, manager and executive in the Los Angeles County District Attorney's Office. On Dec. 3, 2012, she was sworn in as the 42nd District Attorney. She was re-elected four years later without opposition. She is the first woman and first African-American to serve as Los Angeles County District Attorney since the office was established in 1850. A Los Angeles native and graduate of the University of Southern California Law School, District Attorney Lacey leads the largest local prosecutorial office in the nation, with a workforce of approximately 1,000 lawyers, 300 investigators and 800 support staff employees. District Attorney Lacey joined the office in 1986. She won national attention for her successful prosecution of the county's first racebased hate crime murder.

She is committed to safeguarding children from human sex traffickers, seniors from financial elder abuse and our communities from environmental crimes that threaten our health and livelihood. District Attorney Lacey established the Conviction Review Unit to assess claims of actual innocence based on newly discovered evidence. She also appointed the office's first Professional Responsibility Advisor. District Attorney Lacey launched the Financial Elder Abuse Outreach Campaign to alert seniors about scams that target them and their assets. She also assembled the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) and Environmental Crimes Rollout Team, which dispatches specially trained prosecutors and investigators to the scene of environmental threats and industrial accidents involving occupational deaths or serious injuries. And, she created the Human Sex Trafficking Section, the Complex Child Abuse Section and a special unit dedicated to protecting children from abuse through the enhanced monitoring of the countywide electronic suspected child abuse reporting system.

As founder and chair of the Criminal Justice Mental Health Project for Los Angeles County, District Attorney Lacey leads a multidisciplinary group devoted to diverting people who are mentally ill out of the criminal justice system for nonviolent offenses. As part of that effort, District Attorney Lacey initiated an ambitious plan within her office to provide free training to first responders on how to safely de-escalate incidents involving people in a mental health crisis.

For five years, District Attorney Lacey dedicated one lunch hour a week to teaching fifth-graders at Lorena Street Elementary School in Boyle Heights about the criminal justice system. As District Attorney, she has led an effort to share Project LEAD, the office's law-related education program, with other prosecutorial agencies across the country and internationally.

District Attorney Jackie Lacey is a graduate of the University of California, Irvine. She began her legal career as an associate in a small civil law firm. She then became a trial deputy in the Santa Monica City Attorney's Office.
